The work in all four photos must be representative of the work to be sold at the art fair. Clear, good-quality images are essential to a fair review. It is suggested that artists who have previously participated send photos of their recent work. Names of applicants will not be revealed during the review process. Artists may show work only in categories approved by the jury. This also applies to the jewelry category. All work must be executed by the accepted artists, should not be craft-like and must reflect high quality in workmanship. Late applicants will not be juried; therefore, they will not be eligible for Art on the Mall awards. In addition, late applicants will be added to Art on the Mall based upon the discretion of the show, and decisions of the show are final.

Centennial Mall information

Each year many of our returning artists request the same booth location or to be moved to a specific location. We strive to accommodate these requests, however, we cannot guarantee that each appeal can be fulfilled. We regularly receive requests for locations with shade, but mature trees in Centennial Mall are extremely limited. We encourage you to take steps to provide covering for your artwork as well as yourself. A maximum of a 10' x 10' canopy is encouraged.
